Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a, b, or e) as being anticipated by USP 5432250 see abstract, cols 1-2, col. 3 line 1 through col. 4 line 38.

Applicants' claim 1 discloses a plastic lens formed of a copolycarbonate resin comprising a structural unit (I) of the following general formula (I),

and a structural unit II of the following formula

Art Unit: 1711

The reference USP 5432250 discloses to a process for producing a polycarbonate. More particularly, the present invention is concerned with a process for producing a polycarbonate by subjecting a dihydroxy compound and a bisaryl carbonate to melt polycondensation through transesterification.

Examples of the cycloalkyl group include cyclopropyl, cyclopentyl, cyclohexyl, cycloheptyl and cyclooctyl groups. Examples of the aralkyl group include benzyl, phenethyl and benzhydryl groups. Examples of the aryl group include phenyl, naphthyl and anthryl groups. The aryl group is preferably a phenyl group. The above-described alkyl, cycloalkyl, aryl and aralkyl groups may have at least one substituent which is inert under reaction conditions. Examples of such a substituent include a halogen atom, an alkoxy group, an aryloxy group, an aralkyloxy group, an alkylthio group, a cyano group and a nitro group.

Polycarbonates are a general-purpose engineering thermoplastic and have found a wide range of applications, particularly in injection molding or a glass sheet as an alternative to a windowpane.

The term "paddle" used herein is intended to mean a discontinuous blade (that is, a blade whose bottom is not continuous with the bottom of an adjacent blade) as opposed to a screw. Although examples of the form include a convex lens and a pseudo-triangle, the form of the paddle is not limited to those only.

The reference USP 5432250 discloses in col. 3 lines 1-30 and col. 4 lines 1-36:

Art Unit: 1711

Among them, preferred dihydroxy compounds are compounds represented by the following general formulae (I), (II) and (III):

(wherein R_1 , R_2 , R_3 , R_4 , R_5 and R_6 which may be the same or different, each stand for a hydrogen atom, an alkyl group, a cycloalkyl group, an aralkyl group or an aryl group, X_1 , X_2 , Y_1 , Y_2 , Y_3 , Z_1 and Z_2 , which may be the same or different, each stand for a halogen atom, an alkoxy group, an alkyl group, a cycloalkyl group, an aralkyl group or an aryl group, i , m , n , p , q , r and s are each an integer of 0 to 4 and t is an integer of 2 to 10).

Examples of the alkyl group include straight-chain or branched alkyl groups such as methyl, ethyl, n-propyl, isopropyl, n-butyl, isobutyl, tert-butyl, n-pentyl, isopentyl, neopentyl, hexyl, heptyl, octyl, 2-ethylhexyl, decyl, undecyl and dodecyl groups. The alkyl group is preferably a straight-chain or branched alkyl group having about 1 to 8 carbon atoms.

Examples of the cycloalkyl group include cyclopropyl, cyclopentyl, cyclohexyl, cycloheptyl and cyclooctyl groups.

Examples of the aralkyl group include benzyl, phenethyl and benzhydryl groups. Examples of the aryl group include phenyl, naphthyl and anthryl groups. The aryl group is preferably a phenyl group.

Art Unit: 1711

Compounds represented by the following general formulae (IV), (V), (VI) and (VII) as well are preferred as the dihydroxy compound:

(wherein R_7 , R_8 , R_9 and R_{10} each stand for a hydrogen atom, a straight-chain or branched alkyl group having 1 to 8 carbon atoms or a phenyl group, X_3 stands for a halogen atom, u is 0 to 4 and w is 1 to 4).

In view of the above, there appears to be no significant difference between the reference(s) and that which is claimed by applicant(s). Any differences not specifically mentioned appear to be conventional. Consequently, the claimed invention cannot be deemed as novel and accordingly is unpatentable.
